Allphones Retail Pty Ltd and two of its directors today reached a settlement with the ACCC on various breaches of the Trade Practices Act.

Allphones understands the seriousness of the matters and the impact of its behaviour on its franchisees.

The board and management have worked hard over the last 3 years and has improved the way the company operates with particular reference to its systems and transparency.

Allphones recognises the severity of this matter and has respected the ACCC's processes throughout, however at all times it has been focussed on further developing and improving its business.

Allphones remains Australia's largest independent mobile communications retailer and the company works hard so that its franchisees enjoy the benefits flowing from this Allphones thanks its franchisees for their support during this period. Throughout this period, sales have continued at record levels.
